Erie Discusses Wage Increases For Teamsters

ERIE—Wage increases for 400 city employees represented by the Teamsters Union have been discussed by union aides and city officials.

A union spokesman said that no wage boost has been received by city employees in two years.

"Costs have increased in that period and an upward adjustment is badly needed," he said.

Across the board increases have cost the city about $250,000 in the past, it was reported, and the proposed wage increase would probably hinder Mayor Williamson's tax cut plan.

ERIE—The possibility of having the Erie Parking Authority operate and manage the entire city parking program went into exploratory phase yesterday.

Mayor Charles B. Williamson said, however, after a meeting with authority officials that the authority will study other alternatives as well.

ERIE—An 18-year-old youth on a motorcycle escaped serious injury yesterday when he attempted to avoid hitting a truck and upset.

Larry Mackey was taken to Corry Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a lacerated eyelid and forehead plus brush burns about the body and released.

The lad had stopped behind a car for a red light and failed to see a truck headed in the opposite direction turn left when the signal changed.

Warning Issued
TITUSVILLE—A stern warning against shooting in the old fairgrounds north of the city was issued.

Areas around the city are becoming developed to such an extent that indiscriminate shooting is hazardous to lives and property. Workers in the fairgrounds area can hear the whine of bullets constantly, he said. Homes are punctuated by bullet marks and several area residents have nearly been hit by stray bullets.

Meeting in the Russell Fire Hall, where the course will be conducted, association members reported that the program is scheduled to begin Sept. 10 and will run for 10 weeks.

A spokesman for the association said existing regulations call for all volunteer ambulance workers to be schooled in the first aid course.

A similar course was recently completed in Youngsville. Officials estimated that 50 firemen, representing various county fire units will enroll in the course.

Details of the program were explained by William C. Fuelhart, county civil defense director and Samuel Gerardi of the State Health Department. Members discussed the possibility of starting a radio school, designed to give instruction on the countywide fire radio system. Scott Stuart of Sugar Grove would be the instructor.

It was reported that over 100 stickers were distributed to the represented units. These stickers, a spokesman said, will be placed in windows at homes where handicapped persons reside.

Firemen, when observing the sticker, will realize that a handicapped person is within the building, and take appropriate action, an official said.

A memorial service will be conducted at the Northwestern Pennsylvania Active Volunteer Firemen Convention, for four members, who died recently. The convention will be conducted at Garland.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies Auxiliary.

THE FINE ART
OF SALESMANSHIP
Anyone who has ever been bamboozled by a fast talking salesman will know what I mean when I say that appearances can be deceiving.

Take the case of a new car shopper. I've seen it happen many times where the prospect would tour a number of towns and cities until he got the best offer (by about $50.00) and then end up buying a different model at a much higher price.

How did it happen? He simply got talked into it by the salesman. The $50.00 he was 'saving' just got lost in the shuffle of different model prices, optional equipment, accessories and finance terms.

The trade slang for this type of high powered selling calls it "spinning" the prospect. Pretty descriptive too since it usually leaves him dizzy and confused.

Here is the kicker though: out of the confusion of the final deal, the buyer clings to the thought that dominated his mind during the whole transaction, that is that he was 'saving' $50.00! In case you're ready to scoff, let me add I've seen many educated and intelligent people fall into this trap! It's not so surprising though when you realize most folks aren't even aware of the exact rate or amount of finance they are paying.

It is our policy to plainly state all the facts of a sale. We hope you check all the facts. If you do you'll find there is no comparable value for your money than that offered by Starbrick Motor Sales.

Dear Abby . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old boy was born with a harelip (cleft palate) and a club foot, too. It cost us up in the thousands to make him normal and, in our eyes, he is normal. He has a nice personality. He joined a Little League baseball club and was thrilled when he made the first team.

The other boys made so much fun of him it broke my heart, so I made him quit the team and returned the suit. Did I do wrong?

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, if there are traces of your son's handicaps perhaps he must learn to live with them. Protecting him from unpleasant situations is not helping him to adjust. You must well, but you should have let him slug it out.

DEAR ABBY: Never did I think that a syndicated columnist would put me in second place with my boy friend. He had the nerve to tell me not to fog up his glasses until he finished reading DEAR ABBY.

MISS BY A MILE

DEAR MISS: You're being framed! And HE needs contacts.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please warn kind-hearted truck drivers and other drivers NOT to pick up elderly people unless they KNOW the hitchhiker is in full command of his mind? My father is almost 80 and walks with a cane. Once, on his way to the grocery store (which is half a mile down the road), he hitched a ride with a truck driver who drove him 200 miles. It took us five days to locate him. Another time he hitched a ride with a man who took him to Chicago. We had the police looking for him for two weeks. Old folks are sometimes forgetful. It is better to let them walk.

LOOKING FOR DAD AGAIN

CONFIDENTIAL TO IRMA: You are mistaken (and so was I until Dr. Raper straightened me out!)—dentures, no matter how expertly fitted, do not come close to doing the job as well as one's natural teeth. So do yourself a favor and take good care of the teeth you have.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Thunderstorms Fail To Snap State's 13 Weeks of Drought

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A series of severe thunderstorms Thursday failed to snap the state's 13-week drought, the U.S. Weather Bureau reported. "What still is needed is a long soaking rain of about 48 hours," said Warren Kennedy, Weather Bureau official at Harrisburg.

The rain provided some temporary relief for the state's parched counties. But in the south central mountain region hail accompanying the rains did severe damage to field and orchard crops.

Kennedy said the relative concentration of rainfall accompanying thunderstorms results in much of the water running off into streams, instead of soaking into the ground.

Complicating the problem was the fact that the ground in most regions had been baked hard by the dry spell, reducing the amount of water that could soak in during a short period.

An electrical storm accompanied by gusty winds and black clouds that turned day into night dumped more than an inch of rain on the Harrisburg area within an hour. Another 2.16 inches fell in Philadelphia.

Power for ventilating and lighting the three easternmost tunnels of the Pennsylvania Turnpike was knocked out temporarily as the result of lightning.

Traffic through the tubes had been sharply curtailed when the situation was corrected with restoration of electric service about 4 p.m.

A turnpike spokesman said traffic was confined to one lane during the period of the emergency in the Blue Mountain, Kittatinny and Tuscarora tunnels to reduce the potential danger from carbon monoxide fumes.

The power was interrupted when lightning struck the Roxbury station of the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. about noon.

Kennedy at Mid-Term, Part V

Fall Elections Are Big Test For 'Frontier'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Three months from now the entire House of Representatives and more than one-third of the Senate will be up for re-election. At that time the American people will have their opportunity to express judgment on the administration's record to date. The outlook is examined by AP reporter Relman Morin in this fifth and concluding article on Kennedy at mid-term.

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy already is sniffing the heady scent of the campaign trail, three months before the off-year elections.

It's not only because he enjoys campaigning.

This year he has some special interests. He wants to try to elect Democrats who will support him in Congress, to give him what he would consider a true working majority. And he wants to discuss, from the public platform, those issues on which he says "the American people are rather evenly divided."

In November, the entire House of Representatives and 39 senators (five filling unexpired terms) stand for re-election. Along with his judgment of the individual candidate, the American voter will have the opportunity to express his opinion of the President's program, especially the controversial portions of it.

These include health assistance for the aged, the farm bill, the proposal for a department of urban affairs, and the general education bill.

Conservative Democrats joined with the Republicans in blocking this legislation.

Kennedy recently was asked if he will take "reprisals" against such Democrats. He answered "no" and said most of them come from "one-party areas." He went on to say:

"I'm going to help elect Democrats who support this program. The areas I'll be campaigning in are . . . where there will be a very clear choice between Republicans who oppose these actions and Democrats who support them."

At present, there are 263 Democrats and 174 Republicans in the House of Representatives. The lineup in the Senate is 64 to 36.

That looks like a working majority for the President. But he frequently points out that the tally on some key measures has been very close and that a switch of only two or three votes would have changed defeat to victory.

The Republicans, meanwhile, gleefully remind him that when the Senate killed "Medicare," 21 Democrats, including a number of the committee chairmen, voted against the bill. They hoot at his description of this total as "a handful."

Kennedy says that if the Democrats lose five seats in the House in November, his working majority such as it is, will be gone.

He would like to gain five seats, and to pick up 10 would be "wonderful."

His advisors, who demonstrated considerable political acumen during his own campaign of 1960, say it will be a victory if Democratic majorities hold at the present levels—in short, if they can break even.

Four principal imponderables bear on the outlook for November.

One is the economy. A recession, whatever the dimensions, would give the Republicans added ammunition. They already are calling the break in stock market prices the "Kennedy crash."

A second is the perennial question: Can a popular president invest the candidates in his party with some of his popularity? Polls indicate that Kennedy's stock is high now. But not even former President Eisenhower's immense popularity was enough to give him a Republican Congress.

The third imponderable pivots on the ability of Kennedy and other Democrats to explain complicated legislation, and to fire the voters to indignation over what Congress did to specific measures. The proposal for a department of urban affairs, for example. How many people understand what its functions would be and why the administration says such an agency is needed?

Health assistance for the aged is another case in point. The pros and cons of the various proposals on it are not easy to understand. The White House mail reportedly shows that a majority of the writers favor Kennedy's proposal, but not by an overwhelming margin. Anyway, since letter-writing campaigns can be organized, the mail is not necessarily a reliable barometer of public opinion.

And finally, there is the factor of political history.

In all the mid-term elections of this century, the party holding the White House made relative gains in Congress only once. In 1934, during Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term, the Democrats picked up 10 Senate seats and nine in the House. Otherwise, the "ins" always lost ground. Thus, Kennedy frequently says, "history is against us."

The Brighter Side

Conclusion Jumping

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

A filet mignon steak is a symbol of the good life to many, but actually it is one of the most overrated and tasteless of foods—an example of the victory of snobbery over real values.

If you had to choose between eating nothing but filet mignon and gravy, or nothing but rice and gravy, you'd probably last longer on the latter—and enjoy it more. Rice holds its flavor appeal longer than any other single food.

When he is with two women, the quickest way for a man to make an enemy is to light the cigarette of one—and forget to light the cigarette of the other. A wife will put up with a husband who beats her in private if he always lights her cigarette in public.

The thing fat men are most fastidious about is their feet. Their shoes usually have a better shine than those of skinny men.

A woman over 50 who tries to hide her years by wearing too much makeup looks no more foolish than a man over 50 who insists on playing tennis to prove he's still young.

Working himself to death for his wife doesn't annoy the average husband half as much as being asked to come to her aid when she gets a zipper stuck. Why don't they use buttons?

A man who invariably wears a four-in-hand necktie invariably thinks a man who invariably wears a bow tie hasn't quite grown up.

Two strangers riding up alone in an automatic elevator never comment on anything except the weather—unless one of them has been drinking.

The real reason that so many women have taken up bowling is—that's where the men are.

If you want to get a really good meal, go to a restaurant heavily patronized by little old wealthy widows. Good food becomes one of their main joys in life—and they have the time to seek out the restaurants that serve it.

It is hard to understand why a woman who cheerfully carves up a chicken in her own kitchen acts so squirmish about baiting her own hook when she goes fishing.

The honeymoon is over when the bride first asks, "Why do you have to spend so much for lunch?"

Half the people who scream for more cultural programs on television wouldn't bother to watch them if they were provided.

The man who smiles through every loss isn't necessarily a good sport. He is more likely to be merely a poor player who doesn't have enough sense to keep his mind on the game.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Some indecisiveness in others? Don't imitate. Be firm. In free time, follow your outside hobbies, enjoy a seasonable sport, as spectator or participant. But keep things in line.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Shun contentious matters, unscrupulous propositions, risky ventures. Stay close to family, loved ones, to share mutual interests, fun.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Be realistic now. Over-confidence can be an enemy, stifling ambition, true advancement. Coolness, composure urged all day.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—There may be some flaws in your thinking or planning. They will have to be corrected before you can bring about desired changes. You should have some good ideas now.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Whether at work or play today, keep standard of performance high. Whatever your objective, well begun is half done, but don't quit halfway through! Relax, revive spent energies.

Editorial...

A Boost for Route 6

The current issue of Penn Rambles, issued by the state Department of Commerce, contains a lead article on a trip down Route 6—"Scenic Wonder Highway," as the headline puts it.

In the article, the author, who is not identified, tells of what he saw along the 400 miles of Route 6 from the Ohio border to New Jersey. It mentions, of course, Warren County and the Kinzua Dam, as well as the oil country hereabouts. This shows what the impact of the dam is on the official minds in Harrisburg. It also should show us in Warren County that the state is prepared to make tourist capital out of the dam and reservoir—and we'd jolly well better be ready for these tourists.

The answer: Plan now, profit later.

A Splendid Work

Thursday we published an account of the Kiwanis Club's special meeting at Camp Cornplanter. It was the second such article we have published on the work of the club among the county's retarded children.

We feel that Kiwanis is doing something really worth-while in organizing and supporting the work among these unfortunate children. A camp is the kind of activity which, experts say, most benefits these youngsters afflicted with the silent tragedy of retarded mental development.

Kiwanis members have spent thousands of hours and dollars on this project. If any group deserves a big pat on the back and a genuine vote of thanks, it is Kiwanis.

Well done, gentlemen!

Drought in Pennsylvania

While Warren County has been reasonably fortunate as far as dry weather is concerned, there are some 49 other counties in this state which have not been.

The Associated Press story printed in The Times-Mirror on Wednesday disclosed that there is real trouble ahead for Pennsylvania's farmers if we do not soon have at least 48 hours of good, soaking rain.

Now drought is something that cannot be blamed on any man. But man can do something to relieve the plight of these farmers, who are watching their investments burn up in desert-like fields as the hot sun beats down, day by day. We are quick to dish out the dough for often non-essential items. What happens how that we have "disaster areas?" When will federal aid be forthcoming for these farmers?

If we're to have socialism, let us at least have efficient socialism.

Or is that a contradiction of terms?

Here They Come!

If there is any doubt in the minds of local residents on the power of the Allegheny Dam as a tourist drawing card, we suggest a trip to the dam site on any sunny day. Not just weekends, mind you, but weekdays!

The overlook point is crowded with cars. People find a great joy in playing sidewalk—or roadside—superintendent on a job like this. When it's done, the attraction will be even greater, because of the lake it will form.

As we said before, most folks in this area do not comprehend the impact of this project. It's worth a look.

BOOT HILL

Washington Merry-Go-Round

David vs. Goliath, '62 Style

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is touring the Balkans. In his absence, his column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Apparently no critic is too small, no opposition too trifling to escape the ire of the communications goliath, American Telephone and Telegraph, which has its eye simultaneously on outer space and Circle Pines, Minn. (population: 2,789).

The object of AT&T's irritation in Circle Pines is gentle Andy Gibas, who publishes a weekly newspaper called "Circulating Pines," by his own count, he has 1,100 subscribers, gives away another 400 copies free. But Andy discovered what a great howl a small pinprick can cause when he printed an anti-AT&T editorial.

"In the past seven years," the editorial began, "American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (the Bell system) has overcharged the long-distance phone users a billion dollars. But this is going to look like peanuts if AT&T succeeds in getting the government to have over its communications satellites."

This brought swift retaliation from Northwestern Bell, the local AT&T subsidiary, which sent representatives into circle Pines to talk to the town's business, civic, and religious leaders about their weekly newspaper.

The Bell task force was led by tall, genial Joe Cervenka, the company's public relations chief for Minnesota, who explained to this column: "We have a right to state our case to others in the community."

Cervenka acknowledged that he had put Andy's editorial on the teletype to Northwestern Bell's headquarters in Omaha and AT&T's headquarters in New York City.

It was his habit, he said, to watch the editorials closely throughout the state. Critical editorials would be called to his attention by the local Bell manager who was expected to keep an eye on his hometown paper.

Here is the amazing sequence of AT&T's pressure on little Andy Gibas, a tale of a modern David and Goliath:

Shortly after the offending editorial appeared, Cervenka phoned the "Circulating Pines" office and ordered the telephone dropped from the next edition. He must have thought better of this, for he showed up later with a substitute ad and explained that he had merely wanted to make a change.

Cervenka also phoned Andy and suggested that, if he were interested in his newspaper, they had better have a talk. At this confrontation, Cervenka accused Andy of printing untrue and libelous statements about AT&T.

What particularly upset Cervenka was the claim that AT&T had overcharged its long-distance users a billion dollars.

Andy's spiteful wife, Grace, later supplied the source of this information. It had been taken, she said, from a House speech by Congressman Emanuel Celler, New York Democrat.

"Congressman Celler is not a friend of ours," replied Cervenka. "Now I understand. The trouble is you read the wrong things."

The Bell man's next step was to check

Minnesota Newspaper Association for information on possible backers who might own an interest in Andy's paper. Somehow, he came up with the name of Ernest Madsen, and promptly made contact.

"We were curious to know whether this financial backer felt like the Gibases did," Cervenka explained to this column.

But it turned out that Madsen owned no part of the paper, that it belonged totally to the Gibases. (To keep it solvent, Andy is obliged to work by day as a chemist while his wife gathers the news.)

Finally, AT&T launched its invasion of Circle Pines. Cervenka called upon Mayor Gerald Pehl, ex-Mayor Carl Eck, town councilmen, and other leaders. His assistants interviewed Andy's friends and neighbors.

Altogether, Cervenka insists they saw no more than 15 people. But reports reaching Gibas indicate the whole community must have been canvassed.

Some of those interviewed claim the Bell people were polite and proper in their approach. Others detected an ominous note in their criticism of the little newspaper.

One who didn't like Cervenka's insinuations was the Rev. Harris Jespersen, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Circle Pines. He told this column that Cervenka went so far as to imply the Gibases were pro-Communist in their attitude.

"If you are insinuating the Gibases are Communists and all that rot," the pastor lectured Cervenka, "you had better forget about it right now."

Secretary of the Treasury

When there are so many rumors of the appointment of a new Secretary of the Treasury, there may be some truth about it. The rumors may only reflect a very general opinion that Douglas Dillon has lost the confidence of enough persons to give rise for a replacement. Certainly Dillon is no Andrew Mellon, who was our last outstanding Secretary of the Treasury. Ogden Mills, who followed him, was brilliant. Roosevelt appointed his agricultural neighbor, Henry Morgenthau, who flipped a coin to determine the gold support of the dollar. Morgenthau was a humorless but honest and conscientious man; his appointment to the Treasury was an administrative absurdity.

Douglas Dillon, a Republican, was appointed Secretary of the Treasury by President Kennedy perhaps on the assumption that a Wall Street banker knows something about such complex subjects as money, exchange, gold, etc.

This is generally a false assumption. So-called investment houses rarely deal with such questions and their personnel know little about them. At any rate, as Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon has permitted our gold hoard to be reduced to a point of danger. He has done nothing serious to punish tax evasions by the big evaders who put their money in Switzerland, Panama, Hongkong, and other places. His decree of July 20, prohibiting the holding of numismatic gold is really funny. Franz Pick, our leading authority on gold, tells this story in his own way:

"From 1949 until 1954, the historic 'private' mint in Milan, Italy produced the famous Milanese sovereigns and sold them by the millions of coins. Washington not only did not open its mouth, but tolerated their trade in the U. S. Today, when even the highest officials boast that the dollar is better than one and one half years ago... we have to take such petty, if not childish, measures to protect this 'better' dollar, by prohibiting gold coin holdings abroad. By this nearly czaristic 'ukase' or Schachtism decision, we have done more harm to the dollar, which the decree wanted to protect. Because we simply pushed the gold coin owners abroad — and probably within the U. S. too — into the Black Market."

The per capita debt of the United States makes no sense when we are giving money away. That debt at the end of 1961 stood at $1,602.70 per person. Compare that to West Germany which is $128.20 per capita, or Italy, which is $202.01 per capita.

A Secretary of the Treasury is responsible for finding a program to reduce our debt, while safeguarding the value of the dollar and at the same time keeping the economy moving. Perhaps on his organizational chart President Kennedy prefers to turn such a program over to his economic advisors. If so, what does the Secretary of the Treasury do?

The names which are bantered about as Mr. Dillon's successor are interesting: Henry Alexander of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York surely is no authority on gold in relationship to our economy. Robert Lovett has been in and out of government but he has never been a financial expert Eugene Black of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development has had a vast experience in the field of money and exchange. John Jay McCloy is an authority on the economy of both the United States and Europe. Some of West Germany's enormous success may be attributed to him.

Whether it will be one of these or some one else or nobody, Douglas Dillon faces the political difficulty that it is expected that he is the next man in the Cabinet to go.

One of the major difficulties that the administration faces in this field is that official figures do not reflect facts. What is the actual amount of American dollars on deposit in Switzerland and other tax havens? Has income tax been paid on any or all of it? In the gold black market, all transactions are without record. Payments for transfers are never made by check or any other preferable, recordable method. Hard cash is used.

The question then arises why is nothing done or even said about all this? Are such big men involved in tax haven transactions that all lips are sealed to avoid disclosure?

I do not know. The Treasury apparently does not know. Are only the truthful, honest Americans to suffer?

How To Keep Well

By DR. THEODORE Van DELLEN

A new method of treating psoriasis produced excellent results in 214 men and women with this stubborn skin disease. The plan utilizes a salve containing a synthetic corticosteroid (fluocinolone acetate).

It is easily applied and small amounts are effective. The majority of the lesions usually disappear within three weeks. Cure does not occur, as the scaly patches are likely to return when the medication is discontinued.

The drug has been used for some time but the new method of treatment is aimed at keeping the skin free of plaques. According to Dr. Mauray J. Tye and colleagues of Haverhill, Mass., the salve is rubbed into the lesions three times a day until clearing takes place. Thereafter, it is applied as often as necessary to keep the skin free of the patches.

Better results are obtained when the salve is applied and the area is covered with a moist dressing held or sealed in place with a plastic covering such as Blendederm. This method works best when there are only a few lesions, more so when they are located over the knees or elbows.

The treatment is tapered off gradually after the skin clears. In approximately one-third of the users, improvement lasts three or more months. In others, the lesions recur but relief again takes place when treatment is resumed.

The corticosteroids are hormones related to cortisone and ACTH. They are followed by many side effects when taken internally over a long time. Reactions are less likely to arise after the local application of such products. Dr. Tye followed the course of this group of patients for many months and was unable to detect any ill effects from topical applications of the product, which demonstrates its unusual safety, considering the potency of these hormones.

R. C. writes: If fever is nature's way of fighting an infection, why is it desirable to reduce it?

REPLY—Because a high temperature is uncomfortable and leads to dehydration and weakness. Large amounts of fuel are needed to overheat the body, which is another way of saying that valuable tissue is burned up when fever is present. But we are not as concerned with the temperature reading as we were in the past. We realize the cause is more important.

E. P. writes: Is coronary thrombosis due to overwork and tension?

REPLY—More than half the victims of coronary thrombosis have their heart attack while sleeping. The basic cause of this disease is hardening of the coronary arteries. Arteriosclerosis is traced to various factors ranging from too much cholesterol to overweight. Tension may play a role, but not overwork.

W. W. L. writes: What is water on the brain of little babies just born?

REPLY—Hydrocephalus is an abnormal accumulation of fluid within the skull, resulting from interference with the flow of the cerebrospinal fluid through this area. In most instances, the flow is obstructed because of a congenital malformation or an infectious process.

N. M. writes: I have neuralgia that hasn't been helped by aspirin or vitamins B1 and B12. Is there anything else to try?

REPLY—Certain types of neuralgia can be corrected with specific remedies or through surgery. Consult a neurological surgeon.

Art Buchwald from—

PARIS—Our good friend Monja of your Mother's Day Committee Danischewsky, a writer, informs us that a book was just published in London containing the hitherto unpublished letters of Oscar Wilde. Although it is priced around $12, it has been a sellout.

This has caused Mr. Danischewsky, as well as everyone else, to rummage about in their attics in hopes of finding some unpublished letters which might fill a volume.

Mr. Danischewsky was able to find two.

One was from the Russian composer Tchaikovsky, dated Kislovodsk, 7/10/1847, and is addressed to his publisher, Ivan Vassilievitch Troublimov.

"My much respected Vanya, 'The weather continues to hold and the waters are doing us both good. I am happy that you like the new ballet. After much trial and error I am happy about it myself at long last.

"By all means choose the title yourself. Ca m'est egal! Here is a suggestion for what it's worth: last night at dinner just as I was thinking about it Masha said to me, 'Please pass the nutcracker, sweet.' It just occurred to me there might be something there... But you are always better than I am at these things.

"I kiss you,
"Petya.
"P.S. I understand the Rubins just had a boy whom they named Arturo. What a strange name for a Russian child."

The second letter was a note from Abraham Lincoln to the editor of the Gettysburg Courier.

"Dear Sir,
"The correct text should read: '... of the people, for the people, by the people.' I don't care what your reporter claims to have heard. I am quite sure I didn't say anything different.
"Sincerely,
"A. L."

Mr. Danischewsky inspired us to go on a search of our own and in our attic we found several letters we're sure have some value.

The first is dated Elsinore and it is written to a Mr. Karl Vakunin.

"Dear Mr. Vakunin,
"Thank you for yours of the eighth. As much as I am in sympathy with your idea, I am afraid pressing personal problems prevent me from acting as chairman

"My dear Josephine,

"I seem to have misplaced one of my gloves, and as it is getting quite chilly here in Russia, I was wondering if you would have a look in the top drawer on my dresser.

"If you find it, please send it by express, as I have to keep one hand in my waistcoat, and the troops find this very amusing.
"Your devoted husband,
"Nap."

MISS MIDNIGHT'S Notebook: Cary Grant may just surprise some of his best friends by taking another fling at matrimony—which would explain his friendly divorce from Betsy Drake, after all this time. The lucky girl who may be saying "I do" to Mr. Marvellous is Dyan Cannon, slated to be in the new Jane Fonda play. (And won't that jazz up things at the box office.) Dyan is described as blonde, cute and sweet.

Gower Champion is busily turning down movie scripts. Originally lured to Hollywood to direct "Bye Bye Birdie" for Columbia, he bowed out of the project because the studio wanted him to do five other films, sight unseen. Gower then directed "My Six Loves" for Paramount and now he's considering a three picture deal with Columbia. But so far he hasn't liked any of the scenarios they've sent him. Obviously Gower's a true believer in "the play's the thing". Politicians just back from Massachusetts say that if you don't think Teddy Kennedy will win up there, you haven't been to Boston recently. Chums are worried about singer Robert Weede. The two ribs he broke in an accident have taken much too long to heal.

Louis Prima and his new vocal-ist Gia Malone, are acting like sweethearts at Lake Tahoe—and not just when they're on stage at Harrah's. Golly, it seems they only met a few weeks ago. . . . Tuesday Weld dates a lot of fellows, but the one she prefers is Dan Busby, a Los Angeles lawyer. . . . Carol Burnett, who has rapidly become the nation's favorite comedienne, isn't going to be able to keep her big news a secret much longer. Too many people know the story.

Rush to the record stores every-one. An Alabamian named Henry Gibson has just made an album titled "The Alligator Is My Pal and Other Poems". . . . Judging from the press interest in the garden party being given for Rita Hayworth at Charles A. la Pomme Souffle on August 13th, Rita is going to make quite some noise when she opens on Broadway in "Step On A Crack" this Fall. All the major magazines, TV networks and radio programs want to cover it. Now if someone will just figure out how to fit in a few guests, it ought to be a fine bash.

The newest fad in Greenwich Village is the bikini party, although they're quite away from any beach. In fact, the bikini has become an accepted "evening gown" down there. . . . Leslie Uggams the Mitch Miller chirper, is becoming quite a cover girl. She's had 11 magazine stories done on her in the past three months, and seven of them used her picture on the cover. . . . Out in far Hollywood, they think the Kay Gable-Efram Zimbalist Jr. thing is quite serious, and that the out-going Mrs. Zimbalist won't mind a bit because she's worked up considerable interest in a handsome young actor. . . . Wolf Mankowitz's new novel "Cocatrice" will dissect the cinema world. . . . "The Music Man" is racking up some of the hottest grosses of any picture in the past five years. In many locales the second and third weeks are outgrossing the first weeks, indicating that happy word-of-mouth element. The studio is gleeful over their decision to have Robert Preston repeat his stage triumph because all the reviews make it clear that he dominates the picture.

Don't you love thinking of Brigitte Bardot as "a merchant"? That's how she's described in the trade journal in France, now that the registrar has accepted her signature for use in connection with perfume, cosmetics and—one would assume—checked gingham dresses. . . . Obviously one player doesn't have much confidence in the new musical of which he's co-star. It hasn't opened on Broadway yet, but he's already agreed to do another show that starts its Philadelphia tryout in November. Elvis Presley's most energetic

MRS. JOHN R. MATTHEWS

Saundra Lee Groves Bride In Calvary Baptist Rites

The marriage of Saundra Lee Groves and John Raymond Matthews on June 30 in Calvary Baptist Church was the first nuptial ceremony to be performed in the new edifice.

SHE is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Groves, former Warren residents now living in Tucson, Ariz. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Chester R. Matthews of Route 2, Luling, Texas.

Twin baskets of yellow glads and white daisies formed the altar setting for the 2 p. m. double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Howard Cartwright of Emmanuel Baptist Church of Starbuck. Wedding music was provided by Margaret Donham, organist, and Mary McFarland, vocal soloist.

KATHY Bobelak was honor attendant and bridesmaids were Edna Shefstead of Fort Peck, Mont., and Elaine Gottschalk of Lake Mills, Wis.; junior bridesmaid, Evelyn Groves of Tucson, sister of the bride.

All were gowned in ballerina-length yellow chiffon. Each had a matching headpiece and half-veil and carried a nosegay of green daisies.

CHRISTINE Anderson, the flower girl, wore a yellow silk dress and matching hair-bow and carried a basket of yellow and green daisies. Ricky Ristau of Youngsville, a cousin of the bride, served as ring-bearer.

ESCORTED by her father, the bride appeared in white silk organza, the lace top jeweled with rhinestones and pearls and styled with a scalloped scoop neckline and sleeves to the wrists. Each side of the floor-length bouffant skirt was gathered to the hipline with an off-white rose.

Her veil fell to her elbows from a pillbox of lace, crystals and pearls, with twin off-white bows at the back. Her flowers were a cascade of white daisies centered with a corsage.

The bride's mother wore a yellow rose corsage with a yellow polished cotton dress and beige accessories. Her grandmother, Mrs. Harry Keller, was favored with a white carnation corsage.

A lawn reception for 250 guests was given at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Keller. Aides were Mrs. Richard Kissell, Mrs. Irene Zawalki, Mrs. Kenneth Ristau, Jeanne Peterson, Carol Brunkhardt, Barbara and Evelyn Groves.

Wishing our New Neighbors
Wilson's Cut-Rate Gas Station Success

evenly circulated GAS heat keeps every room cozy all winter

Practically all new homes are heated with Gas—and here's why. A forced air Gas system circulates the air evenly—through every room in your house, including the basement. And a single, centrally located thermostat keeps the temperature uniform throughout. Your children can play in comfort on the floor in any room—even on coldest days. Your rooms never have a stale, stuffy, stagnant atmosphere, because the warm, filter-cleaned, freshened air is constantly "on the move" throughout your house.

If your home is heated with modern, automatic Gas equipment, you have the best heating system you can buy! And, when you buy or build a new home, make sure it has modern Gas heat.

What's more, it's easy to convert your forced air Gas heating system to summer comfort cooling—just add on a Gas Air Conditioning unit to your present Gas heating system. Enjoy year-round, "whole-house comfort" with GAS!

BISHOP W. VERNON MIDDLETON

Methodist Bishop Urges Changed Mission Program

In an address delivered Wednesday at West Virginia Wesleyan College, at Buckhannon, Methodist Bishop W. Vernon Middleton of Pittsburgh called on The Methodist Church to "rebuild its missionary program and have a rebirth of confidence in the ability of the Church to accomplish its purposes."

Bishop Middleton spoke to ministers and laymen from 10 Methodist conferences of North-eastern United States, gathered to attend the Appalachian Missionary Conference.

The resident head of the Western Pennsylvania Area's 1,400 churches was general secretary of the Division of National Missions, Methodist Board of Missions, for five years prior to his election to the episcopacy.

He outlined two essentials to be considered in a renewal of mission work:

1. In any renewed zeal in our mission purposes we must insist that man is important. In large segments of our affluent society and in that large portion of the world dominated by Marxist theory, man is expendable.

2. Deeper identification with the persons whom we seek to bring to Christ. It is increasingly apparent it is difficult to render effective ministry when we, who bring the message of the Kingdom, feel superior to those we seek to serve.

The Bishop listed, also, four "attitudes and conceptions which must be surrendered if we are to have a new, redeeming and right spirit created in us and in all men":

1. Accept the fact that "God hath made of 'one blood' all nations to dwell on the face of the earth."

2. Refute the contention that Western civilization and Christianity are synonymous terms.

3. Forsake the accepted formula that any nation has the right to decide, alone, the destiny of other social, ethnic, or national groups.

4. Learn and accept the fact that world friendship cannot be purchased by gifts of money.

Shopping 'Round Warren

By Natalie Williams

We hope you've all been to Kresge's grand re-opening. If you haven't, do stop in tonight or tomorrow. The store is bright and beautiful. Lots of new things have been added and the store merits a shopping tour.

One of the things you might be especially interested in are the doorbuster sales. We'll only mention one — young parakeets. If you've never owned one of these merry little birds, you ought to get one now.

Parakeets are perfectly delightful. They're impish and charming "playmates." A parakeet will chase a marble around a dish and get into all sorts of clownish antics. He'll perch on the rim of your glasses and carry on a terrific "conversation." Yes, parakeets can be taught to talk. In fact they'll often pick up expressions frequently used around the house and suddenly surprise you or your guests.

They'll sip from your glass, perch on your finger, fly to the top of a curtain rod and dare you to catch them, perform all sorts of acrobatics on gadgets you put into the cage. And there is nothing that a parakeet loves more dearly than a mirror. A parakeet can amuse himself for hours, carrying on furious conversations with his reflected image.

For young charmers of another ilk you ought to visit Miller's Infanteen. Send your youngster back to school in the prettiest way—in new fall cottons by Cinderella.

The bright, fresh school fashions are pretty enough to dress up in, too. All in wonderfully easy-care cottons that need little or no ironing. Foliage-colored dresses in woven stripes of plaid. Full-skirted jumpers with their own white blouses. Charming little nautical frocks.

Cinderella frocks make any little girl feel just like that — Cinderella. They come in the most exciting colors imaginable. And everyone of them is picture-perfect. They're not nearly as expensive as you might think either.

Older charmers thinking of fall fashions will be interested in the fur-trimmed coats at Montgomery Ward & Co. August is always the time to buy fur-trimmed coats at a saving.

There's superb ribbed wools collared or collared and cuffed with natural ranch mink, squirrel or Norwegian blue fox...handsome all wool plushes trimmed with mink or squirrel.

It's the mink that appeals most to us. Almost every woman loves these tiny, silky pelts. And a touch of mink is often better than a full-length fur coat, much as you might dream of owning one. We think a mink collar looks most elegant on either a fitted or flared coat. Cap it with a tiny fur pillbox and you're ready for any gala occasion.

While we're at it, we might as well send you on your way — in a Corvair Monza, the roomy family car that's a sporty driver's car, the car that will whisk you to any occasion in style.

Or maybe you'd prefer the lively low-cost Chevy II that comes in 11 models. Or a jet-smooth Chevrolet like the Impala Sport Coupe.

You'll find them all at Dan's Chevrolet. In wonderful colors with sporty or conservative interiors.

Back to more mundane things. If your kitchen furniture's beginning to look a little worn, maybe you need seat and back replacements. Why buy a whole new set when you can make your chairs look like new inexpensively with MasterMade sets now available at Waxman's Furniture store.

Each set contains a deluxe two-inch thick seat and back replacement covered in wipe-clean vinyl fabric. They fit all chairs whether they have screw on or slip on backs and they're easy to install.

There's padding on both sides of the back. Seams are fully welted. Get them in the gold pattern on white, yellow, red or toast.

MRS. JOHN MICHAEL SEMBER

Swanson-Sember Nuptials In St. Joseph's Church

Sally Eileen Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Frederick Swanson of 515 Water St., chose July 21 for her marriage to John Michael Sember, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sember of Johnstown.

The Rev. Father Alfred M. Bauer celebrated the Nuptial Mass and read the double ring service in St. Joseph's Church. Decorating the altar were bouquets of white glads, snapdragons and sheffleria.

Vocal selections were sung by Joseph Guiffre and traditional organ music was provided by Mrs. Donald Edinger.

PRESENTED in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta. The short sleeved basque bodice of Alecon lace featured a scoop neckline embroidered with seed pearls. The skirt belled out from the waistline, with an apron-effect front of lace appliques and a large butterfly bow lending back interest.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a Swedish crown of seed pearls and aurora crystal drops. Her cascade bouquet was fashioned of stephanotis and warneck with a white orchid.

ATTENDING her sister as maid of honor, Marilyn Ann Swanson wore silk organza in a pastel orchid shade, a bateau neckline accenting the sheath lines, the overskirt forming a mushroom pouff. A matching rosette held her face veil and her flowers were a cascade of asters in purple shades.

Similarly attired and carrying cascades of pink asters, bridesmaids were a college friend of the bride, Sally Jo Miller of Pittsburgh, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Bellotti of Fairmont, W. Va.

THOMAS Kallnyak of Washington, D. C., was best man and guests were seated by James Lopez, Warren, and Lawrence Bellotti.

Favored with pink rose corsages, Mrs. Swanson chose a cocoa silk organza sheath and Mrs. Sember selected a sheath of beige silk organza. The bridegroom's Palms and bouquets of white mixed flowers decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony solemnized by the Rev. Marvin L. Harding. White ribbons designated the family pews.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in silk organza over taffeta, the same as she wore at her wedding.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices fell into a mixed pattern early this afternoon. Trading was slow, as it normally is just before a summer weekend.

The market opened mixed, declined a bit and then recovered the round that had been lost. As in previous sessions this week, most changes of key issues were under a full point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .3 at 217.5 with industrials down .5, rails off .2 and utilities unchanged.

The market appeared stalled as President Kennedy met with his top economic advisers to seek a decision on tax reductions. Most of Wall Street has already concluded there will be no cut this year.

The trend was mixed among aircrafts, utilities, rails, oils and rubbers. Steels, electronics and chemicals were a shade lower while most metals and some mail order firms advanced fractions.

Chrysler led the motors with a gain of slightly over 1. Among the steels, Jones & Laughlin, Republic and U.S. Steel all gave up 1/2 or less.

Two aluminum producing companies continued yesterday's advance. Alcoa was ahead about 1 and Aluminium Ltd. about half that.

Special corporate news affected the issues of several companies. These included Xerox, up more than 2 after directors increased the dividend late Thursday.

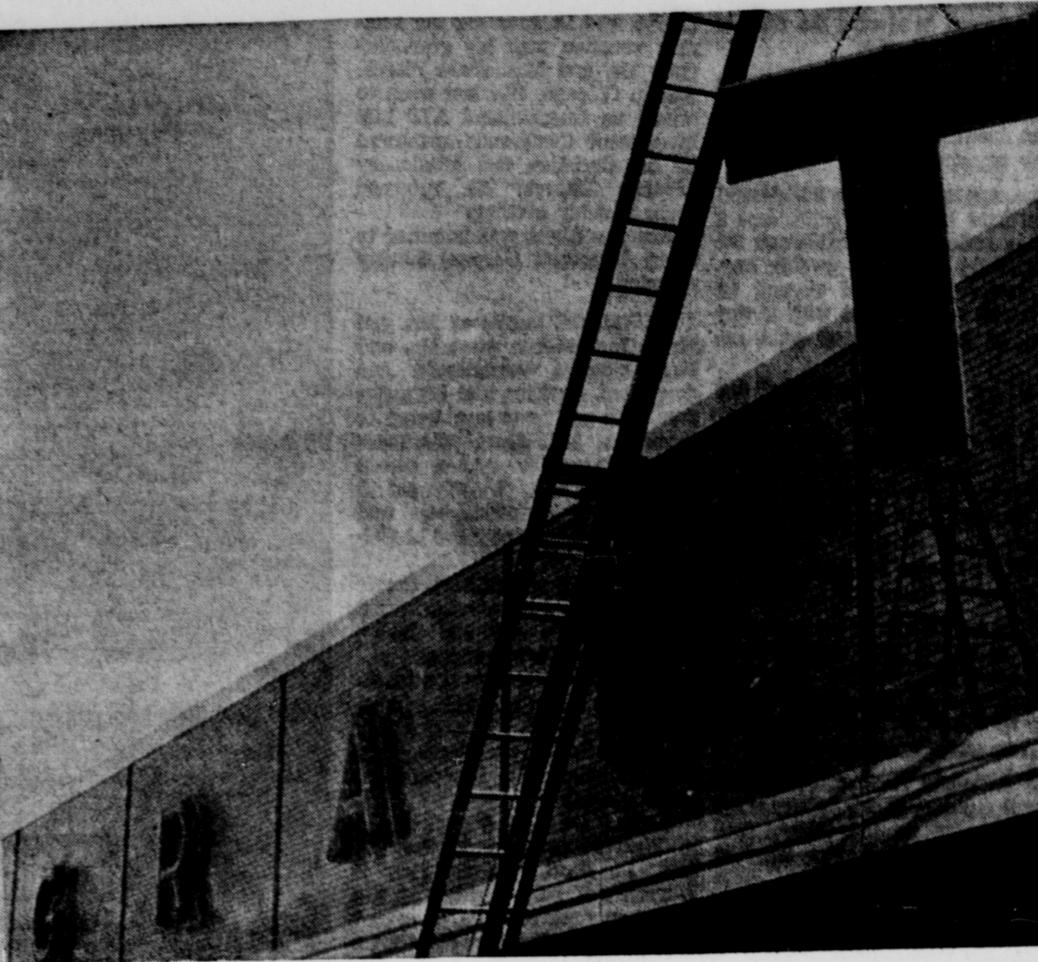

Gillette, which plans to acquire a company that makes hospital supplies, picked up around 1/2. Pittsburgh Metallurgical, a 2-point gainer Thursday, added another point. Published reports said the company was in merger negotiations with an unnamed firm.

Amerada gained over 2 but other big oil companies showed only narrow changes.

At noon the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 1.05 at 532.24.

Seeking Tighter Controls

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oil and coal interests have shifted to the Senate Finance Committee their campaign for tighter controls on oil imports, including residual oil.

They had nowhere else to go after the House turned them down by refusing to put into the Trade Expansion Bill a stricter limitation on imports of crude oil and oil products.

Whether they will fare any better on the Senate side of the capitol remains to be seen.

Stephen F. Dunn, president of the National Coal Association, said in a statement filed with the Senate committee that the mandatory oil import control program, initiated in 1959, has not been effective in limiting imports.

He said imports of petroleum, including residual oil, should be curbed.

Harold Decker of Houston, Tex., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, told the committee the present controls have not met the objective of revitalizing the domestic oil industry.

Decker urged a strengthening of the national security provisions of the House-passed trade bill to achieve a rollback on imports, other than residual fuel, to the ratio of imports to domestic production that existed in 1956. That ratio would be about 14 per cent.

Such a limitation was about what a group of oil and coal state House members sought unsuccessfully to have the House Ways and Means Committee write into the trade bill.

Dunn said areas in which coal is the predominant industrial activity are among the most depressed in the nation. He said the domestic oil industry also is in economic distress. He blamed petroleum imports.

Dunn attacked pricing policies of residual oil importers, contending they sell at what ever price is necessary to beat the competition and make up any losses on other petroleum products.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the National Coal Policy Conference, urged the committee to consider a fair program of protection against excessive oil imports.

SAM DAWSON

Sees It

(Business News Analysis)

NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam is about to have company in his heretofore exclusive club. Joining him in worrying because good times aren't getting better fast enough are some of those he has been envying are such paragons of booming economies as West Germany, France and Japan.

But one and all have the consolation that if the bloom is off their boom, at least they're a lot better off than the Soviet Union and China, where mounting troubles are becoming plain for all to see.

In the United States, worrying so far has concentrated in Washington and Wall Street. The rest of the country mostly has gone along doing business about as usual and planning to do more business in the future.

But in Washington the debate over what to do about an economy that isn't growing as fast as hoped is at a peak, both in and out of Congress.

And Wall Street had its say in May and June when stock prices broke sharply to bolster recession fears.

Stock market slides also were the first outward sign of trouble in West Germany and Japan. Stock prices in England and France have moved pretty much in sympathy with Wall Street also, as is natural in a world growing ever more tightly allied financially.

But signs of industrial slowdown are now reported in the Common Market nations that of late have been cited as shining examples of the way to get a boom started and keep it going. Their fiscal policies—ignoring orthodox treasury deficits, as these are understood in the United States, to keep economy planning humming—are being studied by American financial experts for tips on how Washington might change its fiscal ways.

While Washington is studying the European examples, West Germany reports a slowdown in the pace of several of its heretofore fast-growing industries. This has been dramatized by a drop of about 25 per cent in stock price averages in the last four months.

Japan's flashy stock market ran into trouble some time back. Now France is beginning to fret about an economic development that has plagued the United States most of this year—a slowdown in capital goods investment.

Some see all this as proof that the old economic cycle is far from being as dead as many had hoped.

Others see it as a challenge to try new ways, here and abroad, to get the non-Communist world moving faster again—especially as troubles in the Communist world mount.

Machine Accountants Assn. Changes Name of Group

The National Machine Accountants Association Board of Directors has announced that their organization will now be known as "Data Processing Management Association. The name-change reflects the expanding role of data processing, and the growing responsibilities of professionals in the field, they said.

NMAA was founded in 1951 to promote the study and development of the new science of data processing systems, to provide an urgently needed agency for the exchange and dissemination of technical information, and to give national direction to the professional. Since that time, the organization has grown to an international membership of 16,000 in 185 chapters in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, and Japan, the board noted.

According to its newly-elected international president, Elmer F. Judge, the widening use of digital computers and associated electronic equipment, as well as the rising managerial status of the membership has made this change necessary. The new name more accurately describes the membership and its functions, he said. As the association representing the users of data processing equipment, membership in DPMA is limited to those individuals in a supervisory, staff, or higher capacity in data processing installations, and to managers and executives, who have an interest in data processing principles.

An important role of the association is to inspire proper recognition of the data processing profession and its contributions to business, industry, and government. The DPMA certificate in data processing, established this year, is a major step toward the formalization of the profession, Judge said.

Membership in the Penn-York Chapter of the organization is held by R. H. Baughman, Kenneth Green, Robert Haben, Quenton Holt, Robert Schenck and LeRoy Weaver.

Rollins, Allen Star in 12-10 Minnesota Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now, let's see. What's the top one-two punch in the American League today? Maris and Mantle? Cash and Colavito? Rollins and Allen?

Rich Rollins and Bernie Allen of the Minnesota Twins don't threaten Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito of the Detroit Tigers or Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris of the New York Yankees in home runs. Not by any means.

But the contributions of Rollins, 24, a third baseman, and Allen, 23, a second baseman, compare favorably with those of the M-M and C-C boys in all other hitting departments, including their combined batting average.

Here is how they stand: Maris-Mantle .271 average, Cash-Colavito .260, and Rollins-Allen .290.

Rollins and Allen each drove in four runs as the Twins outlasted Kansas City 12-10 Thursday and regained a share of second place, five games back of New York. Chicago's Eddie Fisher threw a sparkling three-hitter in a 6-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels, Boston and Bill Monbouquette blanked Cleveland 4-0 and Detroit handed Washington its sixth straight loss, 8-5. Baltimore at New York was postponed by rain.

Allen produced three singles and a double and raised his average to a season high of .272 in the Twins triumph over the A's. Rollins, who is now hitting .305, got maximum mileage out of a couple of singles. His four RBI gave him 79, tied for the No. 2 spot in the league.

Fisher (4-4) struck out only one but didn't walk a man and retired 21 batters in a row over one stretch in pitching the White Sox past the Angels. It was the first

Brown Starts Over Layne

WEST LIBERTY, W. Va. (AP)—Ed Brown will be in the quarterback slot Saturday night when the Pittsburgh Steelers open their exhibition schedule against Chicago at Atlanta, Ga.

Steelers coach Buddy Parker picked the former Chicago Bear for the starting assignment Wednesday over Bobby Layne and sophomore pro Terry Nofsinger. But Parker, in the announcement from the Steelers training camp here, said Layne and Nofsinger will see action.

Parker did not say who will start in the other three backfield positions.

However, in Wednesday's workouts Tom (The Bomb) Tracy was a fullback, John Henry Johnson ran at left half and rookie Bob Wills of USC was at the flanker spot.

The roster was reduced to 48 with the cutting of two more rookies, and Bobby Lee Hultz of Pepperdine and tackle Carl Crawley of California (Pa.) State College.

Hunting Licenses Sent Out

For most sportsmen sweltering through the summer doldrums, thoughts of hunting may be far away. But with dog training season already started and dove shooting due to open Sept. 1, the Pennsylvania Game Commission is ready for another hunting year.

M. J. Golden, the Commission's Executive Director, announced today that shipment of the 1962 hunting licenses has started to more than 1,900 issuing agents across the state.

They will be available at sales counters in county treasurers' offices, sporting goods stores, and from other issuing agents within the next two weeks. The new licenses, printed in black ink on pink cardboard, are valid beginning Sept. 1. A hunting license is required to kill any wild bird or animal in Pennsylvania.

The form of this year's license has been changed from licenses used in the past. According to Golden, the license and certificate have been combined into a single unit, thus making it easier for hunters to keep both parts together.

Also new this year is a big game tag incorporated as a removable portion of the hunting license. In the past, the big game tag was a separate card.

On the 1962 licenses the big game tag is actually a corner of the license containing an eyelet so the tag can be attached to the big game animal.

The tag must be removed from the license by tearing along the perforation. Hunters who bag a big game animal are required to tag the carcass, listing information as to the date of kill, county of kill, hunting license number and name.

The DALEY WORD on SPORTS

By Bill Daley

You might figure on pulling up your leather chair tomorrow for an afternoon of Dizzy Dean and Pee Wee Reese's commentary on the Detroit-New York Game of the Week, interspersed with "Aint that right, podnah," "Howzzat, Ol' Diz?" and other fractured phrases of these two former greats of the diamond.

Or you might get a scientific signal-by-signal account of the Boston-Baltimore game from Joe Garagiola and Bob Wolfe, and get a lecture on "percentage baseball" from one of the game's foremost baseball broadcasters.

But if you have any "home-town spirit," or call it what you want to, you'll forego the comforts of that leather chair, the entertaining remarks of these four broadcasters, and pay a paltry buck for an afternoon of all-star baseball by the kid-next-door, your nephew, the kid who broke your window, the fellow who's got a crush on your daughter, or your son in the annual Kiwanis, sponsored Hot-Stove Games at War Memorial Field tomorrow.

That dollar you will pay is a pretty good investment, too.

Not only does it go to a worthwhile cause for the underprivileged and retarded children's contributions of the Kiwanis, we guarantee more baseball in one afternoon—and no commercials at that—for handing over that piece of paper with George Washington inscribed on it.

And not only that, you could come home with one of the door prizes being awarded every hour. In terms of sports thrills, you might not know all the players, but every one of them try just as hard as Rocky Colavito or Mickey Mantle. A double in Yankee Stadium means just as many bases on War Memorial Field, and there is just as much joy and elation over a no-hitter for Hot-Stovers as there is for a major-leaguer.

What we've taken half a page to say could be aptly put in this way: Don't stay away from the All-Star Games because you think there is a better brand of baseball on television.

Besides, I don't think Messrs. Reese, Dean, Garagiola, and Wolfe would mind the least bit if you passed them up this Saturday.

Davis Homer Routs Philadelphia, 8-3

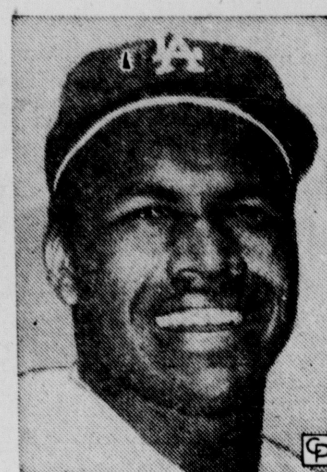

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Giant killer Tommy Davis will be ridin' into San Francisco today. And it's gonna take some sharp slingers to handcuff the top gun in the West.

Dennis Bennett, the last left-hander to get the drop on Davis and the Los Angeles Dodger crew, had the National League leaders blanked on two hits Thursday night until Davis fired a two-run homer that got the front-runners rolling to an 8-3 victory.

Davis, who's belted San Francisco pitching at a .522 clip, warmed up for the important weekend series starting tonight with the second-place Giants by breaking out of a slight slump against the Phillies on a 2-for-3 performance.

The triumph over Philadelphia, in which Lee Walls and Frank Howard contributed key triples, left the Dodgers' edge at 5½ games over the Giants. San Francisco took its final target practice against New York, walloping the Mets 7-1 while Jack Sanford won his ninth.

Dark Thinks Giants Can Lose, Still Win

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The way San Francisco Manager Alvin Dark figures, his Giants can lose to the Los Angeles Dodgers tonight and Saturday yet still remain in the National League pennant race.

Of course they'd have to beat Los Angeles the final five times the leaders meet this year—but that's as good a way as any to win five of seven games.

"I feel like we do have to win five of those seven from the Dodgers," says Dark. "But I don't care in what order we win them."

"If we do win five from them and can be within two games of the lead going into the last nine of the season, I think we'll have the advantage because of the schedule."

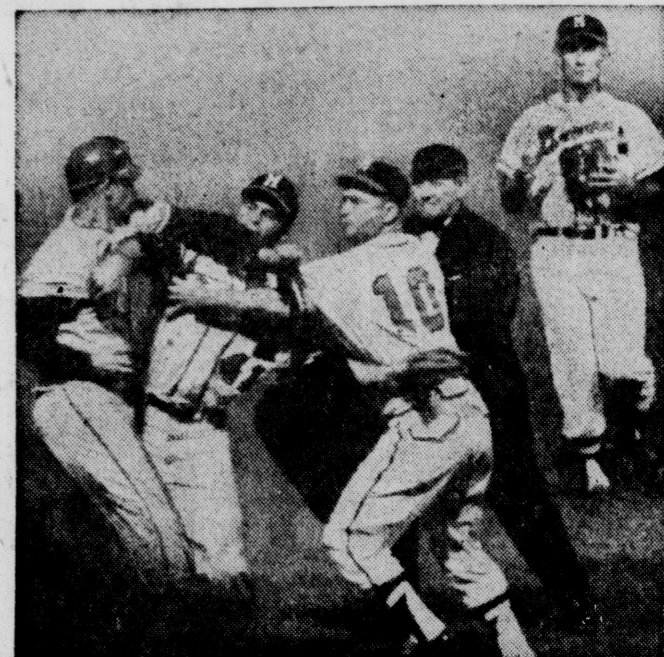

The Dodgers led the Giants by 5½ games after Thursday's games in which Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 8-3 and San Francisco defeated New York 7-1.

Most observers agree, however, that to again become a prominent factor in the pennant race San Francisco must sweep the three-game series that begins here tonight.

For the other four games between the two teams are in Los Angeles (Sept. 3-6), where the Giants are 0-5 in 1962. The loss of even one game in the current series would thus necessitate a 3-1 edge for the Giants in Los Angeles if they were to match Dark's formula.

Billy O'Dell (13-10) faces Dodger Johnny Podres (9-7) in a battle of lefties to open the series. Billy Pierce takes on Don Drysdale, the major leagues' winningest hurler, Saturday and Juan Marichal tangles with Stan Williams Sunday.

Babe Ruth Finals Are Tonight

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP)—It will be Trenton, N.J., vs. Clarksburg, Va., and Phoenixville, Pa., vs. Wilmington, Del., in tonight's semi-finals of the Middle Atlantic States Regional Tournament of the Babe Ruth Baseball League. Phoenixville and Wilmington joined Trenton and Clarksburg in the semi-finals with first-round victories Thursday night. Phoenixville beat Brunswick, Md., 7-1, and Wilmington defeated Colonie, N.Y., 13-7.

Trenton and Clarksburg posted first-round wins Wednesday night. Phoenixville broke open its game with a five-run third inning. Three of the runs were unearned, as were the team's other two runs later on.

John Elvin, the winning pitcher, contributed a two-run double in the big third inning. Wilmington put across a total of 11 runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to rout Colonie.

Cincinnati throttled Houston 7-3 although the Colts broke through for their first runs after 38 consecutive scoreless innings, and Milwaukee edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0 on Joe Adcock's homer. St. Louis and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Given the impetus by Davis' homer, the Dodgers broke it open with a six-run seventh inning that overcame a 3-2 deficit. The triumph went to reliever Ed Roebuck (8-0).

Sanford (15-6), winning his fifth against the Mets without a loss, was touched for an unearned run in the sixth. The Giants pounded out 13 hits against Bob L. Miller (0-8) and his successors, wrapping it up with a four-run outburst in the bottom of the sixth.

O'Toole (12-12) was touched for the Colts' first runs when catcher Johnny Edwards hit Norm Larker with a throw during a run-down in the fifth inning. Houston finally got an earned run in the ninth on a single by J. C. Hartman and Jim Campbell's two-out double.

Making his first start since July 3, Tony Cloninger (3-2) shut out the Cubs on two hits for seven innings but needed ninth inning relief help from Claude Raymond. Adcock's second inning homer tagged the loss on former Braves' teammate Bob Buhl (8-9).

Rockets Open Drills Sept. 1

The Slippery Rock State College football team will open pre-season drills on September 1, under head coach Chuck Godlasky, starting his fourth season as the "Rockets" mentor.

Chances for the Rockets in the State College Championship race are cautiously optimistic. The lack of reserve strength seems to be the only deficit, with twelve lettermen lost with graduation, and several returnees meeting with a separate difficulty in classroom work.

However sixteen other lettermen return for the '62 season, enough to build a solid nucleus for Godlasky's "Rockets."

The team has lettermen at every position, and the pass combination of Tony Nunes to Jim McElhane is expected to provide an added threat, as it did last season. Jerry Bejbl, an outstanding fullback, and an excellent punter, should provide the brunt of the running attack.

A front line of standouts Denny Douds, Larry Kunselman, John Ciesielski, and Nick Galbraith, should provide the holes.

A longer nine-game schedule is the remaining hurdle for the Rockets.

Biggest Warren Co. Open At Blueberry Hill

By BOB EAMES
Blueberry Hill Golf Writer

A field of 100-110 golfers is expected to establish a new attendance record when the second annual Warren County Open is held at Blueberry Hill Country Club this Sunday. Joe Brindis, winner of the first annual, and of four other titles when the event was known as the Kinzua Open Golf Tournament, will be on hand to defend his title and to shoot at the course record of 73 which he shares with Dick Krapfel and Tony Bevevino, among others.

Among the top Warren golfers eyeing Joe's title are Jack Clarkson, who has placed among the top five spots over the past four consecutive years, and Bob Johnson, who likewise has four top spots over the past five years. Joe Scalis and Dick Krapfel each have a pair of top five placements.

Tony Bevevino, Tink Wolfe, Leo Salerno and Skip Morine each have a recent top placement and are expected to give Joe a lot of competition. Among the other first flighters, already signed up and capable of turning in a hot round are Bill Simonsen Jr., Bill Rice, Frank Smith and Chink Collins (a winner of the title back in 1933).

Jack Hamilton heads a list of Warren's outstanding young golfers and should finish with the best of the field.

Beyond those mentioned above, Warren has a wealth of fine golf competitors and it is the hope of the committee that many more will decide to enter Sunday's event. Only through the participation of the majority of our best

Parker Builds Team With 31 Rookies

By JOE BRADIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Like a mechanic, Coach Buddy Parker knows you need good sparkplugs to run a car. So to generate some spark in the Pittsburgh Steelers, he's brought 31 rookie pass receivers and runners to camp.

The key man is Bob Ferguson, the 220-pound All-America fullback from Ohio State. He can run through the line, and with speed once he gets into the open.

In the recent All-America game at Buffalo, Ferguson ran for the winning touchdown and picked up the most valuable player award. Parker plans to start the veteran Henry Johnson at fullback. But if Ferguson gets rolling Johnson will be moved to halfback. "We'll just have to wait and see," cautions Parker. "Ferguson should be a big help. However, we still need an outside runner and a good pass receiver."

In the latter category, he's selected Harlan Hill from the Chicago Bears, an eight-year veteran in the National Football League. Parker, noted for securing extra mileage out of veteran players, hopes Hill, who was used last year in Chicago as a defensive back, can fill the bill in the receiving department.

For outside running he's counting on Gary Ballman, a 195-pounder who enjoyed tremendous sophomore and junior years at golfers can the "Open" become fully significant of its title.

It is the intention of the committee to hold the field to approximately 100-110 entries so as to permit undelayed play, but it is also intended not to refuse entry to any first flight golfer who may desire to compete.

George Eberhardt, general chairman revealed last night that possibly 40 tickets were available, but speculated that these would be taken by Saturday. Tickets may still be obtained from Darling Jewelry, Simonsen's Insurance, New York Restaurant, and Albaugh's Barber Shop. Ticketholders are urged to set up their own foursomes and call the Inn to reserve tee times as soon as possible.

Tee offs are limited to the hours between 7:30 and 12:30. Included in the schedule of events are charcoal hots from 10 until 2 and Lewis' chicken barbecue at 6 p. m.

Four flights of golfers will compete for separate titles, trophies and prizes. Trophies for the men's open have been donated by the Warren Observer while the Warren Times-Mirror has donated equally for the Women's Open.

Palmer Is 3-Under For AGC Early Lead

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer has a hot putter, an itching wrist and a chance to break his own all-time money-winning record in the $50,000 American Golf Classic.

The Pennsylvania strongman got off to an excellent start Thursday with a blazing three-under-par 36-31—67 over the tough Firestone layout of 7,185 yards for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tournament which ends Sunday.

"This is the best putting I've done all year," said Palmer, who was scratching his left wrist after breaking the course record over the back nine with a 31. Palmer one-buffed 10 greens and took 27 putts in his entire round. He wasn't hampered a bit by a bee sting on his wrist suffered while playing a practice round Wednesday.

"It itches a little, otherwise it's okay," said Palmer. One would think that the palm on Arnold's hand also was itching. To date he has won $71,198 this year and could surpass in this tournament the PGA record of $75,262 he set in 1960.

By leading the first round, Palmer picked up an extra $1,000 in the tournament which carries a variety of bonuses and a first-place prize of $9,000. Even if Palmer should finish second, the $4,600 would put him past the record.

Palmer's tremendous round dampened the hopes of Jim Ferrier, George Bayer and Mike Souchak, all coming in with 69s. Ferrier had five birdies and four bogeys while Souchak had three bogeys, two birdies and an eagle three on the second hole, which most of the other leaders birdied. Bayer had the steadiest round, collecting 17 pars and one birdie.

Only Jim Ferree matched par in the field of 98, shooting a 36-34-70. Behind Ferree was a group of six players with 71s, including PGA champion Gary Player.

Milt Plum:

I Can Do Very Well Without You, Mr. Brown

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milt Plum gets a chance Saturday night to show Paul Brown he can get along without him very well.

After years of acting as a puppet at Cleveland while Coach Brown pulled the strings from the bench, the 27-year-old quarterback finally was traded to the Detroit Lions. Plum had been critical of Brown's habit of sending in every play from the bench and said so publicly not long before he was traded.

Plum will be at the controls for the Lions when the Browns come into Detroit for their first pre-season game. Tom Watkins, another ex-Brown, also is with the Lions.

Jim Ninowski, who shared the Detroit quarterback job with Earl Morrall last year, is expected to take over Plum's job with the Browns although Cleveland also has Frank Ryan, ex-Los Angeles Ram. The Browns are in the process of reorganizing their backfield due to the loss of Ernie Davis, the ailing rookie who is out for the season.

The Browns-Lions game will be one of six National Football League exhibitions Saturday. There also will be two American Football League exhibitions Saturday.

The busy weekend program opens Friday night with the champion Green Bay Packers, 42-20 winners over the College All-Stars last week, playing the Dallas Cowboys at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. With another week of work, Paul

Drexler's Two Run Homer Stops Soda-Mineral's Upset Bid, 6-5

Jim Tinelli found out last night where not to pitch Barry Drexler—in the strike zone. In fact, he was sure of it when he turned to watch centerfielder Larry Campbell do a somersault over the centerfield fence, trying to haul down Drexler's game-winning home run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Tinelli was coasting along with a 3-2 margin, before the fatal seventh inning, on the virtue of a four-run first inning, highlighted by Don Mohny's three-run homer, and a solo blast in the fourth by brother Mike Mohny.

In the seventh, Beverage got the rally rolling with Ed Cummings, single, hit sharply to right. Dean Stewart then closed the gap with a home run over the left field fence, cutting the Soda-Mineral lead to 5-4.

Chick Stewart then bounced to Tinelli, and Jack White whiffed. Lou Cummings then poked a single in between Joe Massa and Larry Campbell. Massa made a diving catch, rolled over and came up with the ball, but umpire Bill Anderson ruled that Massa caught it on first bounce, and Cummings raced into third.

Drexler came up and hit a 2-1 pitch into dead center sewing up the game 6-5.

Tinelli had a two-hitter going into the seventh, after he had trouble with control in the first, issuing four walks.

The Mineralmen out-hit the Beverage team 6-4, but Stewart's and Drexler's homer proved the difference.

Soda-Mineral got off to a 4-0 lead with Dick White's lead-off single. White took second on an error, and came home on Don Baldensperger's single. McKelvey kept it going with another base-hit, and Don Mohny piped one over the left-field fence, making it 4-0.

Beverage scored their two in the first with Lou Cummings single scoring Chick Stewart, who walked, and Tinelli walking in a run. BEVERAGE AB R H C. Stewart cf 3 1 0 J. White c 3 0 0 L. Wagman and Greene also were scheduled for trial Thursday. When they did not appear, Judge McKinnon ordered a capias issued for Greene and said his $3,000 bond will be forfeited if he does not come into court within 30 days.

Solicitor Dan K. Edwards said proceedings will be started to extradite Wagman to North Carolina. Edwards said he understood Wagman is being held in jail in New York.

The one-year sentence was the minimum under the law, which provides a maximum penalty of five years.

World Records Might Fall In Nat'l AAU Swim Meet

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio (AP) —The greatest field of international aquatic aces since the 1960 Olympics opened competition today in the three-day men's National AAU outdoor swimming championships.

George Haines, coach of the crack Santa Clara (Calif.) S.C., said if the 50-meter Water Works pool was fast, word records would fall in wholesale lots because of the high caliber field from Japan, West Germany, Australia, Canada and the United States.

Five of the 14 titles were at stake in the opening day's program, the 200-meter backstroke, 100-meter butterfly, 400-meter free style, 100-meter breaststroke, and 400-meter individual medley.

The freestyle featured a return battle among Roy Saari, 17-year-old whiz from El Segundo, Calif., who whipped Australia's Olympic king, Murray Rose, and world record holder Jon Konrads in completing a triple sweep in the National Indoors last April.

The medley finally brought world record holder and defending champion Ted Stickle of the Indianapolis A.C. and West Germany's record buster, Gerhard Hetz, face to face. Stickle, 19, set the world standard of 4:55.6 last year and he and Hetz have taken turns lowering it. The Indiana U. sophomore has a best time of 4:51.0 to the 2-year-old German's 4:53.5.

Youngsville Kiddies' Day Parade Plans

YOUNGSVILLE — The annual Kiddies' Day parade, which is a traditional feature at the Youngsville Community Fair, has been subjected to some changes this year because of the fact school is not in session and construction work is in progress at the usual marshaling point.

The parade will form at 1:15 p. m. Friday, Aug. 17, in the yard of the Warren Electric Cooperative, 320 East Main St. The starting time has been set for 1:30, when the procession will move along East Main St., to the judging arena in Island Park.

Heading the parade will be a band composed of Youngsville High School students and assembled by Larry Halfast.

The community recreation director, Alan Tubbs, will assist the chairman, Mrs. Maxwell D. Rhodes, in directing the event.

ALL children in the area have been invited to participate and compete for prizes to be awarded for fancy costumes and decorated vehicles.

It has been suggested by the sponsors youngsters will be better able to enjoy the fun of the fair if they leave their pets at home this year. A bigger crowd than usual is anticipated, because of the school vacation, it was stated.

It has been announced, also, all carnival rides will be available to the children at half rates during the after noon.

Union Takes No Action On Proposal

creases of $8.00 or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater.

The effective date of the 1962 increase for employees represented by the union will depend upon union acceptance of the offer, he said.

SYLVANIA presented its original proposal of a two per cent across-the-board increase to representatives of the International Association of Machinists, the International Union of Electrical Workers and the United Steelworkers at a meeting in Buffalo Wednesday conducted by the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO. The three unions represent employees in Buffalo, Batavia, Seneca Falls and Salem, Mass., plants as well as Warren.

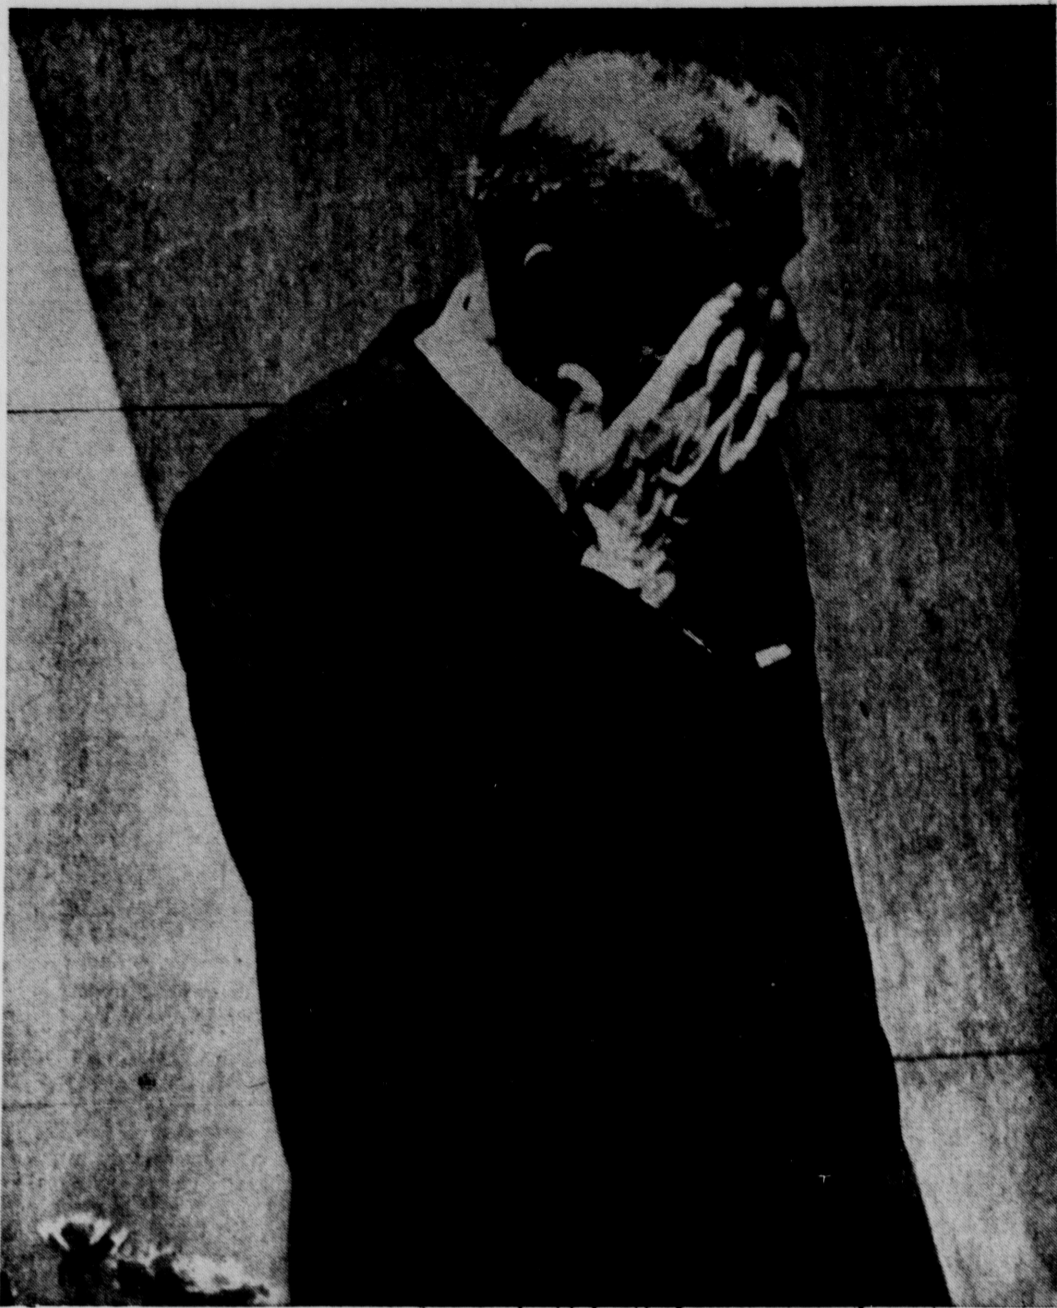

Branding the proposal, ranging from five to 10 cents an hour in pay increases, "the lowest economic offer ever made by Sylvania in over 12 years of labor relations," the union representatives rejected the offer.

DELEGATES, a spokesman for the group said, also "expressed resentment at the firm's refusal to reach agreement on problems such as the pension, insurance and hospitalization plan; the need for supplemental unemployment benefits such as those enjoyed by the steel and auto industries; a sick leave plan such as the one in force for salaried employees and restoration of the cost of living clause that Sylvania discontinued in 1960."

The contract here expires Nov. 1. The Buffalo contract expires Aug. 15. The Batavia contract is due to expire Sept. 30.

Negotiations are continuing on a division-by-division basis.

Reds Reject U.S. Test Ban Proposal

By LOYAL GOULD

GENEVA (AP)—The East-West deadlock on a nuclear test ban treaty deepened today following Soviet rejection of the new U.S. compromise proposal. The Soviets refused even to talk about automatic international inspection on Soviet soil.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin coldly spurned the U.S. plan in a speech prepared even before U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean gave him a general outline Thursday of the plan calling for fewer control posts to detect illegal nuclear blasts and fewer on-site inspections of suspicious events.

Zorin once again adamantly refused to commit his government to the principle of compulsory international inspection and rejected the entire Western formula as "just the old American position dolled up in a new guise to deceive the neutrals."

"From all that we have heard," Zorin said, "it is clear that on the basis of the proposals which Mr. Dean has brought from Washington, no agreement on the cessation of nuclear weapons tests can be reached."

The Western concessions were offered on condition that the Soviets give firm prior commitment to the principle of compulsory on-the-spot checks of suspected treaty violations by international inspection teams.

"If the Soviet Union stops (its current series of) tests and accepts our offer, we will stop our testing tonight," Dean told Zorin.

Zorin insisted on a recess in negotiations of the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament talks.

"There is no sense to go into detailed discussion now," he said, "because the U.S. position has not been changed in principle and there cannot be an agreement on the basis which the United States proposes."

The subcommittee members decided not to meet again until the full disarmament conference devotes a full session to the test ban deadlock. The meeting was set for Tuesday.

Afterward, Dean expressed bitter disappointment at the Soviet position but indicated that the West had gone about as far as it would go toward meeting the Soviets on a test ban treaty.

Tax Cut Decision Expected As JFK Summons Advisors

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy summoned top economic advisers to the White House today as indications mounted that he will make an early decision against a quick tax cut.

Available for the mid-morning meeting were preliminary figures on a number of important economic indicators for July, which Kennedy said would influence his decision for or against tax reduction in 1962. The statistics revealed a moderate July pickup in business.

Called to the White House to discuss taxes and the economy were Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, budget Director David E. Bell, and the three members of the Council of Economic Advisers headed by Walter Heller.

The upward tilt in the July statistics lessened the already-slender chances of tax reduction prior to the administration's previously announced plans for a cut next year.

A group of labor leaders who lunched with Kennedy on Wednesday came away saying he was doubtful Congress would be willing to approve a tax cut this year. However, a final presidential decision was deferred pending study of the economic signposts for July.

The July figures, to be announced piecemeal during the coming weeks, will reveal a rather sluggish economic advance—but an advance, nonetheless. Although disappointing in terms of optimistic January forecasts, they hardly can be expected to generate the kind of alarm which many believe would be necessary before Congress would vote a tax cut at its current session.

Checks with informed officials indicated the July statistics will show moderate increases in retail

Hoover Proposes New Union of Free Nations

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP)—Speaking from the experience of a lifetime of public service "now as the shadows gather around me," Herbert Hoover today proposed a new union of the world's free nations.

He termed it "the remaining hope for peace in the world."

"Today we have no peace," said the nation's 31st president on his 83rd birthday, recounting from his first-hand knowledge of the world's struggles for harmony.

In a speech prepared for the dedication of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library in the village of his birth, Hoover declared:

"We must realize that the United Nations has failed to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace. Instead, it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us."

The Communist nations, he said, "have destroyed the usefulness of the United Nations to preserve peace."

"The time is here when, if the free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger worldwide organization," Hoover said.

"For purposes of this discussion I may call it the 'Council of Free Nations.' It should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight for their freedom."

Hoover said he would not have the council replace the United Nations, but would design it to step in when the United Nations is prevented from acting or fails to act to preserve peace.

The Hoover library made of native limestone, is the fourth of the presidential libraries created by Congress to make the records of White House administrations available to the American people.

The new structure occupies 6,500 square feet and a second unit of 9,000 square feet is planned.

Already functioning are the libraries of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman was listed among the guest speakers.

Today's ceremonies in West Branch, where Hoover spent the first 10 years of his life, included presentation of two honorary degrees to him, one from the University of Missouri and the other from Washington University in St. Louis.

Acting as master of ceremonies was Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the board of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation and Hoover's former secretary. Strauss was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, 1953-58.

The return to West Branch recalled for Hoover "a joyous childhood." It was here, he said, that he picked potato bugs for 10 cents a hundred "for the serious purpose of buying firecrackers to applaud the founding fathers on each Fourth of July."

He decried the voices which despair that "the American way of life is on its way to decline and fall. I do not believe it."

Hoover pointed to the "steeple of tens of thousands of places of worship" and a hundred million worshippers; to the Bill of Rights, "an enforced law of the land;" to an educational system which sends south every year "a host of stimulated minds."

"The mightiest assurances of our future are the intangible spiritual and intellectual forces in our people," he said.

Fair Weather Follows Storms Across Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and mild weather prevailed across the major part of the nation today after an outbreak of severe storms in some areas.

Two persons were killed and seven others injured Thursday in a severe thunderstorm which pounded the Ozark Mountain region of southwest Missouri. A floating, covered fishing dock on which about 20 persons had taken shelter from the rain capsized at the Aunt's Creek Cove of Table Rock Lake at Reeds Spring. A 15-year-old girl drowned.

An 8-year-old girl was killed near Larussell as winds of 80 miles an hour lashed the area.

Showers and cool air spread into some Southern sections, bringing relief from the protracted heat wave. Temperatures again Thursday soared past 100 degrees from the southern Plains through much of Louisiana and Arkansas. Texas sizzled in 100-plus heat but rain brought temporary relief to some southeast sections.

Showers erupted along wide areas in the South. Rains in southeast Texas came after the mercury climbed to 106 in Houston and dropped the reading to 82 in one hour. Hot spot in Texas was Gonzales, in the southern part of the state, which had a high of 114. It was the 35th straight day of 100 degree temperatures.

Winds gusts up to 80-85 m.p.h. swept the Charleston, S.C. area while Norfolk, Va., was drenched with nearly two inches of rain in a six-hour period. Hail pelted Clarksville, Ark.

In the Midwest, winds of 100 m.p.h. lashed the Plankinton, S.D., area. Three persons were injured when a house trailer was toppled.

Four Injured In Accident On Turnpike

MCCONNELLSBURG, Pa. (AP)

Four persons were in the Fulton County Medical Center today as the result of a five-vehicle pile-up near the western entrance of the Tuscarora Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Admitted to the hospital Thursday were Mary Quattrochi, 34, of Chicago; Cynthia Quattrochi, 9; Wayne Harris, 13, of Philadelphia, and Stephen Harris, 7.

Police gave this account of the crash: Approaching the tunnel, where traffic was backed up, driver Anthony Quattrochi, 35, of Chicago, suddenly slammed on his car brakes.

A car driven by Morton L. Harris, 41, of Philadelphia, ran into the rear end of Quattrochi's car.

Harris' car, in turn, was hit by a tractor-trailer driven by Joseph Scribellito, 46, of Toledo; Scribellito's truck was hit by a car driven by George D. Edwards, 60, of Beaver, Pa.; and Edwards was hit by a car operated by Isador Saidel, 53, of Mount Carroll, Ill.

The injured were reported in satisfactory condition.

Erie Man's Extradition Hearing Set

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Justice Department will hold a hearing Aug. 15 to determine whether Nathaniel Hatcher, 42, a seven-year resident of Erie, should be extradited to Alabama to finish a prison term.

Executive Secretary Walter W. Giesey said the hearing was called after the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) appealed to Gov. Lawrence Thursday to stop the extradition.

Hatcher, who lived in Erie under the name of Willie Jackson, is accused of escaping from an Alabama road gang in 1950.

Hatcher had served 10 months of a five-year sentence for auto theft. The NAACP and American Civil Liberties Union claim Hatcher was denied due process of law in the trial at which he was convicted.

Giesey said the NAACP, the Erie County district attorney, and the Alabama Commissioner of Corrections, have been notified of the forthcoming hearing.

Hatcher was taken into custody in Erie last March 10 during a gambling raid. He was identified in a routine fingerprinting.

India Needs Economic Aid, 'Envoy' Says

for the millions who live there. The country has not yet reached self-sufficiency in food production.

YET, he said, nature has endowed India with everything for self-sufficiency, "and we are doing our best to make progress—we are really marching forward."

"Agriculture forms half of our economy," he said. "We have some of the best iron and steel mills in the world. There are 482 cotton textile mills. Progress has been made in health and transportation. All resources are being harvested. By 1965 or 1966 we expect to have free compulsory education for those six to 11 years old and free medical facilities."

The United States has played a useful part in the achievement of all this, he said. Appreciation of U. S. economic aid is general throughout India.

THE population explosion is a real problem in India, he indicated. Every year the population increases by 8,000,000. "We are much worried," he said. "There is no balance between resources and people. But the country has established family planning centers and the government is insisting on the planned family."

India is making progress in all areas, he stated. Under the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru India has advanced economically and politically, he said.

The United States and India have much in common, he said in conclusion. "Responsibility to the individual and the development of individualism. Free elections. Freedom of the press. Power to examine the constitution. The rejection of Communism."

FOLLOWING Chaturvedi's talk, Benze showed colored slides taken while he was in India which pointed up many of the points made by the community ambassador. "I hope we can promote more such visits," he said of Chaturvedi's arrival here. "It is the thing that will promote understanding between nations."

In other business at the meeting the Jaycees accepted two new members—Ed Rickerson of Sylvania Electric Products and Tom Baker of Midtown Motors. Harry Sickler, assistant county planner who was accepted into the group last month, was named Jaycee publicity chairman.

Nels Hagstrom reported that they are still about $175 short on the Fourth of July parade but that they should break even when accounts receivable are all in.

DR. David Lieberman reported that there was a profit of some $30 on the foreign film festival, but recommended that the festival not be repeated next year because expenses are too high and competition too keen. He asked for comments on this from other members.

The joint Warren-Meadville picnic, scheduled earlier this month, has been postponed until Aug. 19, it was stated. A chairman for this event is expected to be chosen within the next few days.

President Dick Waugh reported that the Middle Atlantic Institute will be held in Washington, D. C., Sept. 14-16 and that the Jaycee Auxiliary has invited members to attend their Sept. 11 meeting when the guest speaker will be a representative of the Experiment in International Living, through whom the Jaycee procure their incoming ambassador.

The next state board meeting will be held in Pottsville Oct. 19-21.

State To Open Bids Sept. 7

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Highways Department said Thursday it will open bids Sept. 7 on 25 road and bridge projects, including sections of the Keystone Shortway, the Delaware Expressway and Interstate 70.

The Interstate projects include a 5.02 mile stretch of the Keystone Shortway in Columbia County; a 3.40 mile section of Interstate 70 in Washington County, near the Allegheny County line; and a 2.04 mile stretch of the Delaware Expressway in Chester.

TV Highlights

Saturday, August 11

- 10:00 7 "Invitation to Paris." Here is Paris B. T.—Before Telstar. Taped on location and first presented two years ago, this show offers French performers in a musical "Invitation to Paris." Fernandel, accompanied by starlet Anna Gaylor, is our guide, as he scurries around the City of Light trying to master the English language. They come across entertainers performing in different parts of the city: Maurice Chevalier, who also introduces the show; singers Patashou, Jean Sablon, Line Renaud, Jacqueline Franco and Dalida; Les Compagnons de la Chanson, vocal group; the Jo Basile jazz band; and some can-can dancers. Roger Roger composed the theme music.

Sunday, August 12

- 12:00 2 I Believe. The activities of the True Light Lutheran Church in New York City's Chinatown section are presented in cooperation with the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.
 10:00 7 Bing Crosby. On this rerun, Bing recalls ardio's heyday, with assists from Rosemary Clooney, Carol Lawrence, Johnny Mercer and the Crosby brothers—Dennis, Phillip and Lindsay. Besides the three junior Crosbys, there will also be three of the seniors. Aided by electronic chicanery, Bing appears on screen in triplicate for a group of numbers.

Monday, August 13

- 10:00 2 Japan: East is West. Examples of Western influences as well as Japan's ancient traditions are examined on this one-hour film narrated by Edwin Newman. Examples of the new: rock 'n' roll, TV antennas, amusements, mechanized farms and more bread and meat in diets. Examples of traditional: miniature gardens, the nob drama, Gion festival and a geisha entertaining at a teahouse. Cecil Bron reviews reactions to constitutional democracy.

Tuesday, August 14

- 10:00 7 Shelley Berman. Benny doesn't do it. Hope doesn't do it. Why should Berman do a one-man show, with 60 minutes all to himself? Because Berman is basically a monologist, a comic actor creating a gallery of characters. From tonight's tape, Berman aims his shafts at television commercials, the medical profession and hotels. He presents some routines that have become audience favorites.

Wednesday, August 15

- 10:30 2 Brinkley's Journal. Professional wrestler Antonio Rocca talks to Brinkley about his profession, his fans and the United States. We see films of Rocca in a gym, walking in Central Park and addressing the student body of a high school.

Thursday, August 16

- 9:30 2 The Lively Ones. Vic Damone's Lively Ones tonight are the Limelites, comedy folk-singers; pianist-composer Andre Previn; Dorothy Loudon, comedy song stylist; singer Jack Jones; and the Yale University Chorus.

Friday, August 17

- 9:30 2 Special for Women. Carol Lawrence and Dane Clark in "The Indiscriminate Woman," by Lefferts. Although Doris Langman is engaged to marry Marty Milner, she is seeing other men. This study treats promiscuity as a form of mental illness.

Four Pennsylvanians Die in Plane Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four Pennsylvanians were killed in two plane crashes in Maryland Thursday.

Dr. Helen E. Myers, a 48-year-old dentist from Lancaster, Pa., and Maurice Wilhere, 50, a retired Pennsylvania state police sergeant from Philadelphia, were killed when the woman pilot's light plane crashed into Rocks State Park near Bel Air, Md.

Lt. Walter Russell Filmore Jr., 29, of Elverson, Pa., and AC3 Kenneth W. Taylor, 22, of Philadelphia, were among four servicemen killed when a long-range Navy patrol plane crashed as it attempted to land during a driving rain storm at the Patuxent River Naval Air Station. Filmore was listed as the pilot of the plane which carried 19 servicemen.

Police said a wing may have fallen from the single-engine

Dilworth Says He May Hike State Taxes

BEAVER, Pa. (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidate Richardson Dilworth says that if he is elected taxes will not go down—and they may just go up.

Asked for his views Thursday while having coffee with a group in Beaver, Dilworth remarked, "You can't fool the people on taxes any longer in a campaign."

"Certainly there will be no tax reduction under my administration...If there is any pickup in the economy of the state we ought to get by the first two years without an increase in taxes. But if it doesn't pick up, we may need an increase in the last two years," he said.

Dilworth noted that more money would be needed for education. Higher pay was attracting teachers to Ohio, New Jersey and New York, he said.

The former mayor of Philadelphia and his wife toured Beaver County Thursday, meeting people in Ambridge, Beaver, Aliquippa and Beaver Falls.

continental air race for women, in the same plane.

Officers said the couple left Lancaster Wednesday bound for Huntingdon, W. Va. Dr. Myers, who was a major in the Army reserve, had been flying for 25 years.

A Navy spokesman reporting on the military crash said visibility was poor and the plane was being guided into the airport by radio and radar. The ceiling was about 200 feet, the spokesman said.

Filmore was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Russell Filmore. He was a graduate of Pennsylvania State University and had been in the Navy eight years with 8,000 hours of flying time.

A few weeks ago, MCA died as a talent agency. It was killed by the Department of Justice while the agency was in its prime. The shot was well aimed, and legal. MCA — which means Music Corp. of America — had too many fingers in the theatrical pie. It was an agency, a record company, a movie producer, a television producer.

In 1946, the Saturday Evening Post referred to MCA as "The Star Spangled Octopus." At the time, I had a special interest in MCA because I was director of their literary department. In that day it was said that MCA not only put money into The State of The Union, but represented the authors (at a 10% fee), the stars, Ralph Bellamy and Ruth Hussey (10%), owned part of the show, represented the director, and were beginning to cast an appraising eye on the ushers.

Maybe. If any of it is true, the Justice Department required a long time to break up the monopoly. Toward the end, MCA was earning about $8,000,000 a year in 10% fees from actors like Jackie Gleason, Marlon Brando, Frederic March, Rosalind Russell, Kirk Douglas, Paul Newman, Jack Paar, Dave Garroway, a host of writers, producers, directors, musicals, dramas, books, and foreign rights.

At the same time, it was earning about $75,000,000 from owning Revue Productions Inc., the biggest television operator in the business; Decca Records, and Universal Pictures Inc. The government felt that this constituted a monopolistic practice because MCA was now in a position to represent an actor, put him to work in an MCA television company or an MCA-owned motion picture company, take 10% of his earnings for getting him a job, and earn a profit on his work from the company.

It could do better than that. It could have its motion-picture company — Universal — order a script to be written by an MCA writer, arrange to have it bought by an MCA producer, who would hire an MCA director and MCA actors, and shoot the picture at an MCA studio. There had to be an economic divorce. MCA — which means Jules Stein, the founder, and Lew Wasserman, the president — listened to the alarm bells too long without doing anything. So, when Robert Kennedy's Justice Dept. began to apply the pressure, MCA wanted to sell the talent agency to its employees and, when that move failed, give it to them.

Bi-Partisan 'Togetherness' On Foreign Policy Is Fragile

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Danger is a kind of glue which keeps Democrats and Republicans together except when the glue melts, which happens frequently and most noticeably in an election year, like this one.

This togetherness, called bipartisanship in foreign affairs, is an effort by the two parties to put up a united front against troubles abroad while differing on things at home.

Yet, although they agree a danger like communism must be stiff-armed everywhere, they frequently get unstuck on the question of how. It happened again this week, just three months before congressional elections.

The Republican Senate Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois, said the Kennedy administration sent its representative to Geneva "hat in hand" to make concessions to the Russians on a nuclear test-ban treaty.

And in this same mission to Switzerland New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, seeking reelection this November, saw a "weakening" and "high risk" danger in the American proposals.

Later he said his criticism didn't mean a change in his attitude that national issues should be kept out of the state election campaign although Democrats may wonder why then he was critical in the first place.

The State Department quickly disputed the Dirksen-Rockefeller views. But no one, remembering the record of other years, need fear the fractures, bruises and abrasions bipartisanship suffers in 1962 will be fatal.

In 1950, when President Truman sent troops into war in Korea just a little over five months before the congressional elections, Republicans, particularly Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, hardly looked bipartisan.

Taft said this country had "invited" the Korean War. And Rep. Leonard Hall of New York, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, complained Truman administration bungling led to the war.

The Republican National Committee put out a document listing what it called foreign policy failures under the Democrats.

The Republican rat-a-tat on the opposition got so bad that year that Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republicans at that time, called for a closing of ranks in the "national emergency."

The Republicans didn't have bipartisanship among themselves. In 1951 their own leadership split on whether American troops should be sent to Europe.

It was in the 1952 presidential campaign that bipartisanship took a long and painful vacation.

But Dwight D. Eisenhower got elected president that year and for the next eight years it was the Republicans who made foreign policy, the first time they had a chance to since 1932.

In the 1954 congressional election year—after the peace settlement that gave the Communists half of Indochina—Adlai E. Stevenson complained the United States, although not directly involved in the fighting, had suffered a "devastating loss."

He also had a few things to say on bipartisanship, or the lack of it, particularly among the Republicans themselves.

But anyone who remembers the 1956 election campaign—especially what Stevenson had to say about Eisenhower's foreign policy—will hardly recall it as a happy time for bipartisanship.

Came the 1958 congressional election year. Democrats attacked the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs with such gusto that Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were split on how to handle the critics.

Eisenhower wanted to ignore them. Nixon said that was all right for a man in Eisenhower's position but, as for himself, he was going to fire back. And he did.

Everybody remembers 1960.

Ex-Con Governor Freed Held For Killing Girl, 14

READING, Pa. (AP)—An ex-convict, described by police as a mental case, has been charged with murdering a 14-year-old girl honor student who authorities said was choked unconscious and pushed into a river after protesting the man's advances.

Joseph Meas, 27, of Reading, whose 10-to-20 year sentence for arson commuted last Oct. 16 by Gov. David Lawrence, was arraigned late Thursday before Magistrate Paul C. Brogley. He was committed to the Berks County Prison without bail.

Dr. George P. Desjardins, pathologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, said an autopsy showed the victim, Janice Chmielewski, also of Reading, had not been raped.

Desjardins said X-ray pictures of the girl's lungs showed she died of drowning and was alive but unconscious when pushed into the Schuylkill River on a chaise longue mattress. A man had been seen wheeling the girl's body through a fashionable Reading street on the two-wheel chaise longue and Meas later admitted it was he, police said.

Capt. John Feltman of the Reading Detective Bureau said Janice did not know Meas. Dist. Atty. Frederick O. Brubaker of Berks County said Meas persuaded the girl to go for a walk against her wishes after encountering her in the vicinity of a playground near her home.

Meas' arrest climaxed a massive all-night search after Janice's nude and bruised body was pulled from the river near the Coast Guard flotilla about 12:30 a.m. Thursday. Brubaker said Meas admitted he was the man who was seen standing naked in shallow waters of the river by patrolman John Halstead and who fled despite a warning shot.

Meas was picked up at his home after Sgt. Joseph Canfora, Reading fire marshal, suggested to police that the Northwest sector of the city in which the crime was committed be checked for suspected sex offenders. Canfora told Feltman that quite often arsonists are motivated by sex crimes. Feltman then recalled that Meas had been brought to City Hall and questioned on peeping-tom complaints.

Authorities said Meas' face and body bore a mass of scratches. He at first attributed these to a fall, authorities said, but broke down and confessed later when confronted with his water-soaked clothing which had been found at his home.

Brubaker, who took a statement from Meas, said that Meas and the girl walked up a street a short distance, and sat down on the chaise longue, which was on the patio of a private home. A chaise longue is a chair with wheels on which one can recline full length.

Brubaker quoted Meas as saying he started to "fool around" and the girl protested she had to go home. Meas, according to Brubaker, said he was afraid Janice would yell so he "choked her a little." When he stopped, Meas was quoted as saying, Janice fell backward onto the lounge and "appeared to be blacked out and weakened."

Meas removed the girl's clothing then started applying artificial respiration by pushing on the girl's chest, said Brubaker. He then picked up the lounge and wheeled it toward the river where they both fell down a 60-foot embankment with an 80-degree slope, the district attorney said.

Meas walked over to the shore where Janice was lying, dragged her body onto the mattress of the lounge, disrobed himself and floated the mattress into the river, said Brubaker.

Authorities said Meas was pushing the chaise along Berkshire Drive, in the Greenfield Sector of the city where he was noticed by Donna Troutman, 16, who told her father, Louis, Louis phoned police.

Halstead arrived in response to Troutman's call. Authorities related this account of events after that:

It was the patrolman's flashlight which persuaded Meas to wade in the river. Finally, when the patrolman's flashlight caught Meas standing in the middle of shallow water, Meas walked back to the West side of the riverbank some distance from Halstead, picked up a bundle of clothing and started to wade toward the opposite shore.

Halstead fired a warning shot and Meas stumbled and fell, dropping his clothes in the river. He hurriedly picked up the clothing, got out of the water and disappeared into the woods which border the East bank of the river.

Feltman said Meas "admitted fooling around with her, kissing and hugging her."

"He's a mental case," said Feltman. "There's no question about that. His motives are what we term a maser, a hugger and a peeper."

Janice, who had been scheduled to enter Reading High School as a freshman in September, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Chmielewski, and two sisters, Betty Jane, 16, and Linda Ann, 10.

She was last seen alive by her father shortly before 10 p.m. Wednesday when she asked permission to visit her girl friend, Robin Monyer, who lived about four blocks away. The Monyer girl walked Janice as far as the playground and then returned home.

Meas, a bachelor, had been working for the Permanent Sign and Display Co. here since he was released from the Eastern Correctional Institute at Graterford after serving six years of his sentence. He was sentenced April 6, 1955, after he admitted setting 12 fires in Reading over an 18-month period, one which caused an estimated loss of $200,000 at a paint firm.

Your Forest Ranger

By L. E. STOTZ

The human eye is a magic built-in camera that "photographs" millions of scenes within the lifetime of an individual. All are recorded on the brain to form a living chain of experiences. In our mind's eye, we see them again and again. The passage of time, however, may alter the sharpness of these mental pictures, and lead to subtle changes. Perhaps this is why so few people make reliable witnesses.

A camera, in the hands of a skilled photographer, can place scenes on paper that will tell a picture story that no one can dispute years later. That is why the use of camera points is so important in depicting the life of a forest stand. A camera point is a carefully chosen spot, permanently marked by stakes, from which succeeding photographs can be taken at intervals of many years.

As I write this column, I have before me a series of photographs taken from the same camera point at 10-year-intervals over a 30-year period. This picture story traces the life of a second-growth stand of Northern Hardwood timber on the Allegheny National Forest from the time the culled-over old-growth timber was clear-cut for sawlogs and chemical wood until the present day.

The cutting was done under Forest Service supervision in clear-cut strips running up and down the hillsides in the Arnot Run drainage. A series of these was laid out with uncut strips in between them for seed source, and to avoid clear-cutting on a vast scale.

Reproduction in the form of both seedlings and stump sprouts was not long delayed. There was still abundant browse for deer at this time, throughout the Forest, so they exerted little adverse affect upon the young tree growth that was struggling to get established here.

Ten years later, when the second photograph was taken, the young forest was well established. Individual trees that are the crop trees of the future show up clearly in the photograph. The picture does not portray the fierce struggle for supremacy that was being waged then among the young trees. Even at that early stage in the life of the stand, it would not have been hard to have picked the winners. A couple of wild black cherry trees in the immediate foreground of the camera point would have been the ones to have bet on then.

In the photograph taken 20 years after the clear-cutting, some of the weaker trees that show up in the photograph taken a decade before have already dropped out. Natural thinning, resulting mainly from competition for sunlight, has exerted itself. The struggle is intense, and only the strong survive.

The last photograph, when the young stand is 30 years old, shows a typical pole stand with the ground beneath barren of browse and escape cover for wildlife. The dense crown canopy that shuts out the sunlight has destroyed the habitat for most wildlife. However, this park-like stand has now become an ideal home for wild turkey. In this photograph, porcupine depredations show up on the trunk of the largest black cherry tree. The bark of this fine timber tree is relished by this hungry rodent. If it doesn't kill the tree by gnawing it, growth is slowed down, and the wound provides an entrance for rot-forming fungi.

The stand is now ready for a non-commercial thinning under the Forest Service timber stand improvement program. Crop trees will be carefully selected, and released from crown competition by girdling those trees which interfere with their optimum growth.

There will be seven more photographs taken at 10-year intervals from this camera point. At the age of 30 years, the first commercial cut can be expected. This will remove pulpwood and a few sawlogs from the stand. Successive selective cuts can be expected to continue at 10-year-intervals until the remaining stand is 100 years old. This will consist of the final crop trees, and they will be clear-cut after the last photograph of the stand is taken. The purpose of clear-cutting at maturity is to again establish the light-loving black cherry and white ash which is the goal of even-aged management now being practiced on the Allegheny National Forest.

Seven Texas Teenagers Killed in Crash

SHALLOWATER, Tex. (AP)—Seven teenagers en route to a church picnic were killed Thursday night when a Santa Fe passenger train hit their stalled automobile.

One youth scrambled from the auto seconds before it was crushed.

Engineer Norman Bickers of Slaton, Tex., said the train—moving 79 miles per hour—fused the auto to the cow-catcher and pushed it a mile down the track. Bodies were strewn along a 105-yard path.

Killed were Barbara Fancher, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fancher; Diane Smith, 16, daughter of Mrs. Cleo Smith; Carolyn Carson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carson Jr.; Sharon Miller, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Miller; James Loveless, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Loveless, all of Olton, Tex.; Bill Shirey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shirey of the Sunnyside community north of Olton, and Everett Baldwin, 18, son of The Rev. and Mrs. M. B. Baldwin of Springlake, Tex.

Jimmy Lawson, 18, of Olton, told police the car was stopped on the track when he saw the "train bearing down on us."

"I jumped out and ran," he said. He added that he tried to get some of the others out of the automobile, but they apparently "froze with fear."

The accident occurred just off a farm road about 10 miles northwest of Lubbock.

Lawson, barely able to talk, couldn't explain why the car stalled. He was hospitalized.

The car was one of four from the Olton area traveling to a park at Lubbock for a picnic sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Olton.
